

Dear Friend of The Ohio State University,

Ohio State has always been my second home. It was the most wonderful place to be as a student. I had phenomenal professors and mentors who gave me on-the-job training while still in college. So, when I entered the field of public relations, I had a leg up on the competition.

Many years after graduating, I returned to campus and was inspired by the people I met, by what I saw, and how much the campus had grown. I realized that everything I know, with the exception of what I learned from my parents, came from Ohio State. I knew that I wanted to become involved somehow and give back, but I wasn't sure how.

Then I was asked to join the President's Club. It has been such a positive experience! I have learned so much about this great university—from witnessing the extraordinary research being done at the Wetland Research Park to speaking with former astronaut and Senator John Glenn about the John Glenn School of Public Affairs. It has been wonderful to experience and see all of the exciting things happening here. So many doors have been opened to me that I hope, through my involvement in the President's Club, I've been able to open doors for the university and specifically for students.

Ohio State offers such an incredible future for all of us. There are so many wonderful programs and people here—people who are passionate about their work and who are leaders in their field. I believe leadership and passion are everything. Put them together and you get Ohio State. You also get the President's Club.

Ohio State is a beautiful gift. How could I not support such a magnificent place? How could I not want to pass on the passion I have for my alma mater to others? I want to help in anyway I can. I am hopeful that you share my sentiments. I am also hopeful that you will accept this invitation to join the President's Club.

By taking your seat in the President's Club, you will provide the leadership support Ohio State needs to thrive as one of the world's truly great universities. Thank you!

Sincerely,
